SEASON'S GREETINGS

from the

DOWNTOWNDC BID

Dear Friends & Holiday Shoppers,

For more than two decades, the DowntownDC Holiday Market has been at the heart of Washington's holiday magic — a place where lights twinkle, music fills the air, and our city's creative community comes alive.

Each winter, F Street NW transforms into a joyful, open-air holiday village — filled with the warmth of laughter, the scent of sweet treats, and the creativity of more than 100 local makers, artisans, and entrepreneurs. Every handcrafted gift tells a story. It represents someone's passion, supports a dream, and strengthens the heartbeat of our downtown economy while helping our city to thrive.

In partnership with The Makers Show, we're proud to present an experience that celebrates not only the magic of the season, but also the incredible diversity and vibrancy of our city — featuring creators whose cultures, perspectives, and talents together make Washington, DC, such an inspiring place to live, work, and visit.

So sip a warm cocoa or mulled wine, soak in the sights and sounds, and find those perfect gifts that mean just a little bit more because they're made with heart. And while you're here, take time to explore all that Downtown DC has to offer this holiday season. Shop small, dine local, and celebrate big — supporting the restaurants, theaters, retailers, and cultural institutions that make our city shine all year long.

Come for the gifts, stay for the spirit, and experience the joy of a city that shines brightest when we come together.

Wishing you a warm, wonderful, and magical holiday!

LIGHTING THE WAY THROUGH GRIT, RESILIENCE, AND HEART

Navy veteran and entrepreneur Tenisha Dotstry channels strength, hope, and home into every Fair Winds Candle.

Tenisha Dotstry turned a spark of inspiration in 2016 into a thriving small business. Surrounded by city-themed candles at a Navy event in 2016, she imagined one that honored military life — and by night's end, Fair Winds Candle was born.

In 2020, that vision came to life as a line of hand-poured candles rooted in the resilience of military families. Each one is crafted as a reminder of strength, cherished memories, and the comfort of home. Featured on QVC, HSN, and in Magnolia Magazine, Fair Winds Candle proves that heart and hard work truly light the way.

WEAVING CULTURE, CONNECTION, AND PURPOSE

Colombian entrepreneur Cristina Archila turns heritage into art through LAKA CHAKA, handwoven treasures crafted by Wayuu women that celebrate tradition and strength.

For Cristina Archila, LAKA CHAKA is more than an accessories brand — it's a mission woven with culture, intention, and pride. Inspired by the vibrant Mochilas Wayuu she admired growing up in Colombia, Cristina saw each handwoven bag as a living expression of identity and artistry.

After careers in media and the culinary arts, she turned to honor the women behind this craft. Each mochila is crocheted knot by knot with a 1mm needle, reflecting the patience and mastery of Wayuu artisans. A portion of every sale supports the Jaguapia community, sustaining livelihoods and preserving the Wayuu people's cultural legacy with every stitch.

“I'm a one-woman show completely obsessed with houseplants and macramé.”

— Christina Foy

What began in 2020 as a small fundraiser — selling plants from her own collection to support people in recovery — has blossomed into Plants & What Knot, a creative business rooted in purpose and joy. Guided by her love of design and greenery, Christina Foy has spent the past five years transforming spaces and spirits through her living art.

Each hand-tied macramé hanger, kokedama, and mounted plant embodies her belief that nature brings peace, grounding, and beauty to daily life. Through her work, Christina reminds us that love — above all — is what helps everything grow.

CAPTURING TRUTH, CARRYING THE MOVEMENT

For Heidi Naguib, photography isn't just art—it's activism. As the force behind HeidiPix, she uses her camera to document truth, justice, and the power of community.

What began as documenting protests in Washington, D.C. has grown into a mission to capture the heartbeat of movements for change. Through Heidi Pix, Heidi Naguib uses her lens to tell stories too often unseen, spotlighting the people and moments that drive social justice with empathy and strength.

As a woman of color and independent artist, she bridges the personal and the political—turning powerful imagery into conversation, connection, and hope. Her work lives beyond the frame, reminding us that change begins when we dare to see and choose to stand together.

JEWELRY BORN FROM FAMILY AND CRAFT

What began as a creative family project for Angelika O'Reilly soon blossomed into a full-fledged business rooted in love, craftsmanship, and reinvention.

When Angelika O'Reilly's parents moved to Virginia to be closer to their first grandchild, she wanted to keep them engaged—and a creative idea was born. Together, they began transforming vintage designer buttons into elegant earrings, with her stepdad carefully sanding and assembling each piece by hand. What started as a small family project quickly took off, with pop-ups across the region and a growing community of devoted customers.

By 2025, that family dream became Eliana Curated's first boutique in Old Town Alexandria. Named after Angelika's daughters, Eloise and Julianna, the brand reflects family, craftsmanship, and timeless design. Today, Eliana offers waterproof jewelry, solid gold pieces, lab-created diamonds, and art prints with feminine Parisian flair—always staying true to its heartfelt roots.
